Marine hull is the traditional business of insuring ships and their related interests against the perils of the sea. Amlin's marine hull account is one of the most diverse in the London market, providing clients with worldwide cover. Amlin's coverage varies from small UK coastal craft to large-scale cruise vessels in the Caribbean and niche areas, such as older tonnage and fishing vessels.

Biography:

Richard has worked at the core of the Lloyd's marine hull market since 1982, when he joined the Langton Agency as underwriting assistant. He later joined Amlin's Syndicate 2001 in 1990 as deputy hull underwriter, where he reported to Anthony Bartleet. Richard became class hull underwriter in 1994.

Whilst underwriting all areas of the hull account, Richard is noted as a major London lead for international fishing vessels as well as loss of charter hire. He also concentrates on the craft and restricted conditions account for older, well maintained, ships.
